

IOWA LOSES A PROMINENT MAN

David B. Henderson, Former Speaker of House
Of Representatives, Died Sunday.

Wounded In Battle, Lost A Leg, But Again Entered The Army As Colonel Of The Forty-Sixth
Iowa Volunteers.

Dubuque, Ia., Feb. 26.—Ex-Speaker David B. Henderson died at Mercy hospital there Sunday afternoon of paresis, which attacked him nine months ago.

Since a week ago last Friday Mr. Henderson had recognized no one except his wife. On that day he had a recurring stroke of paresis which left him totally blind. Last Friday he became unconscious, and so remained until his death. The funeral will be held next Thursday under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic. Former Congressman George D. Perkins of Sioux City will deliver the eulogy.

DAVID B. HENDERSON.

Mr. Henderson retired from Congress in 1902 as a result of a disagreement between himself and the republican party leaders on the question of tariff revision. His determination to sacrifice himself rather than his convictions was characteristic of the rugged courage of his nature. He refused a renomination, although it was his for the asking.

Last Day in Congress.

The last day of Speaker Henderson's career as speaker of the house was one long to be remembered. After the gavel had fallen for the last time members crowded about the speaker's desk to grasp his hand. Meanwhile, as is usual on the closing days in the house, the members of congress began singing "The Star Spangled Banner," "Dixie," "Auld Lang Syne," and "America" were sung, followed by "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," "Good Night, Ladies," and others in lighter vein.

Then, as if by common consent, the singers gathered about the speaker as he was bidding the members good-by, and began to sing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." In an instant the push and jostle ceased and all eyes were turned upon the speaker, and one after another on the floor and in the galleries took up the song. The speaker was deeply touched by the closing scenes. After retiring to his room at the rear of the house chamber, he said:

"That song was new to me, and I want it to preserve. It affected me much, and as I looked at the singers I could notice they were touched. There was Jim Tawney, that man of iron, from whose eyes I have seen the fire flash more than once. As he sang I saw the tears were coursing down his cheeks, and he wasn't alone, either. There were others whose eyes were suffused, and my eyes got moist before the song ended."

Sketch of His Career.

David Bremner Henderson was born at Old Deer, Scotland, March 14, 1840, and his parents, rich only in the Scotch elements of industry and strength, and love of right, six years thereafter came to America, settling in Illinois, and three years later in Iowa, opening a farm upon "Henderson Prairie," in the north part of Fayette county. The country then was new, neighbors few and far away, and the life of young David was one of isolation and toil of the pioneer farmer. But fortunately his parents, being eager for the intellectual development of their children, availed themselves of all the means within reach to secure for them educational privileges, and sent David, at the age of 19, to Upper Iowa university, a Methodist college.

Young Henderson was there but a couple of years when the civil war broke out. The little band of students at Fayette college was full of patriotism, and in the summer of 1861, when William B. Allison, now United States senator from Iowa, but then a young military aid to Gov. Kirkwood, was organizing the volunteers, at Camp Franklin, Dubuque, young Henderson appeared at the camp at the head of a company of Fayette students and farmers, asking to be mustered in the United States service.

Gallant in Battle.

Three months afterwards he led his company—his captain being disabled—through the abutts before Fort Donelson, up the slope, and to the very top of the parapet, on which he was shot through the head, the ball breaking his jaw and making what all thought was a fatal wound. His magnificent strength and courage brought, however, speedy convalescence, and in the latter part of the same year, while again fighting at Corinth, he had a leg shattered, necessitating amputation. On his return home he was made commissioner of the board of enrollment, on which he served for some months, and on the organization of the Forty-sixth Iowa was appointed colonel, again entering the field.

On the conclusion of his military service he took up the study of law, and subsequently became a member of the prominent firm at Dubuque of which United States Judge Shiras was the head. He also served as collector of internal revenue and as assistant United States district attorney, both of which positions he voluntarily resigned.

KANSANS IN BERLIN GUESTS OF KAISER

Were Members of Body Guard to Bride of Ruler at Wedding Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Berlin, Feb. 26.—Few prouder or happier men are to be found in Berlin than Stephen Hosse of Wichita, Kas., and William H. Dunning, whose home is in Richmond, Ind. After a pleasant voyage across the Atlantic in the giant steamship Amerika the two men have arrived safe and sound in the German capital to attend the silver wedding anniversary of the Emperor and Empress, which will be celebrated tomorrow as will also the marriage of the imperial couple's second son, Prince Eitel Fritz, and the Duchess Sophie of Oldenburg. The two voyagers from across the seas have come to attend the celebration at the invitation of Emperor William. The two men were present at the Emperor's wedding service twenty-five years ago as members of the First Bodyguard Regiment of Grenadiers. They acted as escort of the bride-to-be, the Princess of Schleswig-Holstein, from the garrison at Potsdam to the castle. The Kaiser has kept a warm spot in his heart for the regiment of which he was the commander at the time of his marriage. Hence it was that he decided to invite as many of the members as were still alive to attend the celebration.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 26.—Great crowds and typical Mardi Gras weather favored the opening of the annual festival of the Crescent City. Business is largely suspended, the display of gay colored bunting is abundant, and the streets are filled with merry-makers. Bright and early this morning the committees having charge of the final arrangements for the event were at work, and at noon the appearance of the Lord Chamberlain and his staff in their gorgeous uniforms drew a large crowd to the roundabout of the St. Charles hotel. Carriages were taken for the boat landing, and at two o'clock the booming of cannon announced the arrival of Rex and his retinue. The monarch was received with the usual honors by the military and civic authorities, and formally took possession of the city. He will make his formal entry at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Tonight the Krewe of Proteus holds high carnival at the French opera-house.

Washington, Feb. 26.—Senator Tillman from the interstate commerce committee today reported the Hepburn railroad rate bill to the senate. Ten thousand copies of testimony relating to the bill were ordered printed. Senator Tillman gave notice for an early consideration.

The senate concurred in the house amendment to the Gillespie-Tillman resolution for the investigation of railroads and their relation to the coal and oil products. The resolution now goes to the President. William Nelson Cromwell appeared before the senate committee on inter-oceanic canals today. He asserted his participation in the Panama canal affairs since the purchase by the United States had been by invitation and the only compensation he had received from the United States was that as attorney for the Panama railroad. This position he held before the United States acquired the road.

Gafney, S. C., Feb. 26.—Keen public interest is manifested in the case of George Hasty, who was placed on trial today on a charge of murder. On December 15 last Hasty shot and killed Milan Bennett and George Abbott Davidson. Hasty was the proprietor of a hotel and his two victims were members of the "Nothing But Money" theatrical company, which was stopping at the hotel at the time. It is alleged that Hasty tried to force an entrance into the room of one of the young women members of the company and that his action was vigorously resented by Bennett and Davidson, who followed the two young men were fatally shot. Several members of the company have returned here to testify in the trial and the prosecution will be further aided, it is said, by the Actors' Fund of America.

BITUMINOUS MEN ARE IN THE LEAD

Robbins Of Pennsylvania, And Taylor Of Illinois, Have Acknowledged Error Of Operators, And Promise To Make Amends.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, N. Y., Feb. 26.—President John Mitchell today endorsed the opinion that there will be no general strike of the coal miners on April 1st, which was given out last night at Indianapolis by Vice-President Lewis.

Robbins' Statement.

Francis L. Robbins, chairman of the committee of the bituminous coal operators, was in New York today and said: "There is absolutely no change in the situation and I see no prospect of averting a strike on April 1st."

"You may accept one proposition as a fixed fact," says Mr. Lewis, "that there will be no general strike in the mining industry April 1. The operators will restore the reduction accepted by the miners two years ago and perhaps more." F. L. Robbins of Pennsylvania and Mr. Taylor of Illinois, leaders of the operators, recognize their untenable position at Indianapolis and have gracefully submitted to the inevitable and will pay an advance to the miners. A general strike will be averted. Business will not be paralyzed by industrial strife. An era of peace will be established for another period of years and the trade agreement method of settling labor disputes will win new friends to its standard.

Forces Anthracite Owners.

"The anthracite operators must now grant an advance in view of the action of the bituminous operators. The details will be worked out later and probably through a special national convention of the mine workers."

"For two years it has been my determined purpose to have all wage agreements of the miners terminate on the same date so that unity of action might be secured without violating existing agreements on April 1, 1906. The first move in this direction was made in Pittsburg, Kan., in the summer of 1904, when the expiration of date of the contract was extended from the end of August to the end of March this year. Practically all our agreements expire March 31 next. By virtue of this arrangement the mine workers of the country are now in a position to compel the operators to deal with us justly."

Bases for Advance.

"The iron and steel industry and the railroads of the country—very large consumers of coal—were never more prosperous than now. From admissions made by those engaged in the production of coal and dependent largely upon the above named industries it must have been apparent that a few cents per ton advance to the miners was not to stand in the way of the continued prosperous condition of the iron, steel and railroad interests. The operators at the recent Indianapolis convention showed the strongest evidence of the weakness of their position when they ignored our arguments that they could pay an advance to the mine workers at the present selling price of coal and still make a large profit."

"Developments will prove additional facts, namely: First, that some of the large corporations represented at the recent Indianapolis joint convention were not in a position to make a successful resistance of the miners' demands; secondly, that the great coal-consuming public will not materially suffer by reason of the advance which will be granted to the miners."

FIFTY CHILDREN INJURED IN MAD RUSH FOR EXIT

Fright At A Fire, And Rush For Narrow Entrance Way.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Alton, Ill., Feb. 26.—Four hundred children who were being entertained Sunday afternoon with a moving picture show in St. Mary's school hall, were thrown into a panic by the accidental ignition of a roll of celluloid films from a spark dropped from the calcium light of the machine. Fifty children were slightly hurt. Prompt action to protect the children averted serious injuries.

Sisters Control Children.

Children tried to leap from the second story windows of the building and were pulled back by the sisters, who had them in charge. Mrs. G. Taphorn broke some of the windows in order to let her children out. In a few minutes the dense smoke cleared and the children were taken out of the hall. Parents took the injured home to dress their bruises.

The owner of the machine said he could not account for the accident, as he did not know of the fire until someone in the audience discovered it. If Scherrer had not seized the burning film and carried it away from the machine, serious results might have followed. He was burned about the hands. Scherrer said the accident was not due to an explosion of the gas tanks used in making the calcium lights.

WHEN MORMON CHURCH
FLOURISHED IN WISCONSIN

Interesting History of The Kingdom Established in Walworth County In 1845, Which Will Be Recalled By Old Settlers.

Just over the line in Walworth county there lives the sole survivor of the Wisconsin Mormon church, founded at Voree in that county on Sept. 13, 1845. It is Wingfield Watson, now nearing the end of his run of life, but still vigorous and enthusiastic in his defense of the Mormon faith and its Wisconsin leader, James Jesse Strang.

Many local people are familiar with the history of the founding of the settlement at Voree and it is one of the interesting stories of early Wisconsin. It was in Spring Prairie jewelry and all personal adornments were forbidden and the hair was to be "combed back and braided tight." Women's Fashions His Downfall.

One brave woman could not endure the injustice of the king's decree. She was the wife of Thomas Bedford. She flatly refused to don the torgery and although labored with persistently and at last threatened, she maintained her insubordination. Finally her husband was charged with encouraging his wife in her obstinacy, for which he was tied to the whipping post and unmercifully whipped.

township, Walworth county, that followers of Joseph Smith took up with the new leader and founded the village of Voree.

Strang bought 200 acres of as fine land as there was to be found in southern Wisconsin. The place was platted and named Voree, a name that hangs to it yet.

Strang proceeded to appoint patri-arch, high priests, twelve apostles, being ready, Strang directed Aaron Smith, high priest, J. B. Walker, J. M. Van Ostrand and Edward Whitcomb to an oak tree on the east line of Spring Prairie township. Digging beneath the roots of this tree there were unearthed three golden plates in a case of baked clay. The plates reported the find and Strang translated the inscription to mean that Joseph Smith had appointed him as his successor.

A number of houses were erected at Voree and a small city was soon built. In one of the buildings that is still standing was published a paper known as the Voree Herald. Later it became the Revolve, and finally the Gospel Herald.

Strang Was Much Married.

Strang, although the possessor of one legal and faithful wife, at once adopted the polygamous feature of Mormonism into the settlement by having "sealed" to himself a second wife; then a third, and soon afterwards a fourth spouse, so that, in the parlance of the humorist, he was a very much married man. Mrs. Strang, the legal wife, remained with her husband at Voree until after he adopted the wholesale "sealing" business, when she in disgust left him, returning with her children to her former home in Indiana.

It is alleged that Strang became so insolent and overbearing, practiced so many gross deceptions that an unbeliever named Scott, set up a rival newspaper and attempted to unmask the prophet. Affairs at Voree began to go from bad to worse, until in 1847 Strang claimed to have received a revelation to move to Beaver Island, in Lake Michigan, where most of the outfit pulled up stakes and followed their leader.

Strang announced a revelation which declared that he was to be "King in Zion." He was crowned on July 8, 1850, with a metal crown having a cluster of stars and burnt offerings were included in the program.

The downfall of Strang and his little kingdom came suddenly and in an unexpected manner. In a proclamation he decreed that the female members should wear a certain hideous costume of calico pantalettes, a garment that came to the ankles and resembled trousers. Over this was to be worn a slimsy skirt that reached the knee, while the waists of these afflicted beings were enough to make the souls of "woman-kind" shudder. They were absolutely straight without a tuck, ruffle or puff. Beads, the scene attending the diabolical scourging of Bedford aroused intense feeling all over the island, for he was deservedly one of the most highly esteemed men in the church. The female members joined in upholding Mrs. Bedford and encouraging her all they dared. The indignation grew to such intensity that finally one Alexander Wentworth, with his friend Bedford, conspired to commit regicide. Secretly they planned to shoot the king at the first opportunity. They had not long to wait.

On July 9, 1856, the day after celebrating the royal anniversary, they chanced to meet. Wentworth was armed with his rifle and taking aim he shot Strang through the body. Strang fell, mortally wounded, while Wentworth and Bedford immediately confessed their crime and gave themselves up, but they were never tried for the offense.

With the death of Strang the kingdom of the Latter Day Saints on Beaver Island fell.

Voree in Walworth county of today is a deserted and abandoned place with a number of tumble-down old buildings. The buildings were all of stone and show a certain kind of architecture was followed.

Wingfield Watson still believes in the divine calling of Strang as a prophet, seer, and apostle of Jesus Christ—clerk of the church and custodian of the records and remaining on one of the choicest farms in Spring Prairie township. Thomas Watson, the son, is the manager of the property, which is well stocked with a herd of fat sleek cattle, including a remunerative dairy herd of cows. The home is surrounded with orchards bearing delicious fruits in abundance, while the garden, the proprietor's pet, is a complete nursery of delicious grapes, berries and small fruits. Mr. Watson is a unique character. Born in Ireland about seventy years ago, by application and perseverance, he acquired a good education. He joined with Strang on Beaver Island, and his loyalty, zeal and superior qualifications soon distinguished him with his chief. All the records, books, papers and church property, including his most sacred emblems, are still in his keeping. His home is a complete museum of Mormon literature. He is a writer of more than ordinary ability, and his treatises, in the form of tracts, several of which are in print, testify to his education and his stable belief in the one true Mormon church of Wisconsin.

Henry Hoffman Relates Incident of the Wreck Which Brings to Mind Rough Story Told of Him.

After the head-on collision of the extra freight from Janesville and the ill-fated DeKalb passenger on the night of Feb. 14, Henry Hoffman of New York City, a traveling man on board the latter train, is said to have sought out Conductor George Devins, who had his shoulder badly hurt and was suffering from a scalp wound, and to have requested him to assist in the search of his (Hoffman's) hat. That was the story which went the rounds the next day and the idea that anyone could be so unfeeling, so unobservant of so absurd as to make such a trivial demand of a man who lay battered and unable to help himself as the result of the catastrophe, at a time when human lives and not mere incidents, such as a headgear should have been the only considerations, appealed to local people as utterly preposterous. Perhaps this story does grave injustice to Hoffman. In the hotel column of this

MEASURES RELATE TO INTER-STATE SHIPPING.

OPPOSITION ON MANY SIDES

Hepburn-Dolliver Bill, Before Congress, Objected To by Big Brewing Interests.

(By Wm. Wolf Smith.)

Washington, D. C., February 26.—Special Correspondence.—That there will be a hotter fight than ever over the various bills relating to the shipping of liquors from one state to another was evident from the gathering in the House committee on Judiciary today when the first of a series of hearings on this subject was held. The room was crowded to the doors with representatives of the Deutsch-Americanischer Nationalbund, W. C. T. U., brewing and liquor interests from all parts of the country. The opening address was made by Robert Crain, of Baltimore, general counsel for the U. S. Brewers' Association, "a body that is vitally interested in the pending measures," as he said, "not only because of their immediate practical consequences but because of the dangerous and revolutionary principles involved." In the course of an extended argument on a subject of which he has made a profound study and with which he is perfectly familiar, Mr. Crain stated five grounds on which the brewing interests of the country oppose such bills of which what is known as the Hepburn-Dolliver bill has been before Congress for several years. These grounds were: first, that there is no necessity for it as the present law as interpreted already gives the states all the power they need, or would in reality be able to exercise under this bill; second, it is a vicious legislation, likely to have an effect opposite to that intended; third, it is a gross interference with the rights of personal liberty; fourth, it would involve serious financial loss and even ruin to various important interests; and fifth it would be unconstitutional.

Mr. Crain maintained that under the bill the mere physical arrival of liquor on the boundary of any state would make it subject to the operation of state laws and the state officials would be able to confiscate it or destroy it or do as they please with it, regardless of the purposes for which it was intended, or of the rights of any individual or of the consignor or consignee. "It gives," he states, "something to which under the constitution they are not entitled and to which they ought not to be entitled," continued Mr. Crain. "This bill is an attempt to amend an existing law known as the Wilson act of 1890, by adding ten words to it, but so far-reaching is the legal and practical import of it that it becomes a law and should be upheld by the courts, it will, in the judgment of many lawyers, have as far-reaching effect on the organic nature of our state and federal government as any law placed on our statute books since the civil war."

Continuing Mr. Crain maintained and supported his contentions by citing numerous authorities, that it is apparent that "this bill goes to the very root of the question as to the relative rights of the state and federal government, in regard to interstate commerce, and as to the delimitations that must mark the congressional power under the federal constitution, and the police power under the state constitutions; and as this question is now looming large on the horizon in connection with much other proposed legislation, it deserves to be said that Congress cannot afford to simply ignore the legal principles involved and leave it to the Supreme Court to determine questions of constitutionality or non-constitutionality. In a narrow legal sense is more difficult than it is in the sense of a broad statesman-ship. The power to regulate interstate commerce has in these latter days come to be the most important power in the hands of congress and should be jealously guarded. Recent decisions of the supreme court bearing on interstate commerce indicates that the court is fully alive to the importance of preserving to congress over it to which it is legally, historically and economically entitled."

Quoting Webster to the effect that the government of the United States owed "its immediate origin to the necessity of regulating commerce between the states," counsel Crain advanced the idea that "it is more and more one tie that binds our statehood fabric, and this committee may well consider deeply before it passes any law which involves any fundamental departure from established ideas."

Mr. Crain then entered into a learned argument as to the constitutionality of the proposed measures. He was followed by President C. H. Hexamer, of the German-American Nationalbund who denounced the proposition "in behalf of millions of German-American citizens as an invasion of the rights of personal liberty."

He stated that the notice for the meeting was so short that he had been able to gather but a handful of representatives from various branches of the Bund who desired to be heard on the subject and asked for another hearing next month. Among those accompanying Dr. Hexamer, most of whom spoke briefly, were Vice-President Noah Guter and Secretary Adolph Timm, of the Bund; Dr. George Richter and Mrs. Fernande Richter, of St. Louis; John Tjarks, Karl A. M. Scholtz and A. F. Trappe, of Baltimore; Kurt Voelckner, Gustav Bender and Wm. Feldhaus, of Washington; Alfons Heinz, of Newark; Adolph Lankering, of Hoboken, N. J.; E. C. Stahl, of Trenton, New Jersey; Wm. F. Remppis, of Reading, Pa.; A. Arms, Rev. P. J. Melhorn, Dr. H. A. C. Anderson, J. J. Hansen, Conrad Witt, Gus J. Voss, Wm. F. Grell, Fritz Henrich and Ernst W. Redeker, of New York City and Dr. Victor Leser, Mrs. Leser, Henry Detreux, E. A. Wildermuth, Charles N. Brice, Barth, J. B. Meyer and Oskar Frotscher, of Philadelphia, Pa.

INVESTIGATORS OF UNIVERSITY DELAY

Legislative Committee Adjourned Until Tomorrow—Regents as Witnesses.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 26.—The legislative committee investigating the university adjourned Friday until Tuesday, when the inquiry will be resumed. The witnesses Friday were Assemblyman P. A. Cleary of Elroy, who offered the investigation resolution in the legislature; Magnus Swenson, chairman of the executive committee of the regents, and L. W. Gay, a real estate agent and the representative of Col. William F. Vilas, former regent in the purchase of property for the university. Assemblyman Cleary was secured after diligent effort by the committee. He said that the charges he made against the university officials were based upon what he had heard from others whom he did not name to the committee. Regent Swenson expressed the opinion that the university, maintained as it is by the taxpayers of the state, should be as free and inviting as possible for the young men and women of this state, but the non-residents should be required to pay the cost of their education at least. He also testified in favor of returning to the old dormitory system, in which students came into close contact with each other and with instructors. Mr. Gay said he secured options on property for Col. Vilas, doing the work as secretly as possible in order that the university might not be held up for outrageous prices. He believed the university had paid only reasonable prices for its property, including the Porter site for the proposed administration building.

Rural comedy, "Quincy Adams Sawyer," at the Myers theatre Tuesday evening, Feb. 27.

Hi Henry's Minstrels at the Myers theatre Friday evening, March 2.

A movement to bring back the bodies of soldiers who were buried in Mexico during the Mexican war was suggested at the annual convention of the veterans at Washington.

CHAINED TO A CORPSE

Doleful Punishment of the Ancients Duplicated in Our Modern Life.

The Romans used to punish a murderer by chaining to his body the germs by which to his body the worms he dragged behind him, the debris of his crime, the sleazy cadaver, revolting thing that was once a man.

"Every day you see people dragging around with them the corpse of their sins. They can't get away from them. And many of them have become so intimate with these corpses that they become corpses themselves. The misery of these poor, unfortunate has become constitutional with them. It fits them like an old shoe. They have become accustomed to it."

And there are thousands of humans who are walking the earth today with corpses attached to them—dyspeptic stomachs they can't get rid of. They have to get along the best they can with the stomachs they have. And the owners of said dyspeptic stomachs are to be found in every walk in life, suffering from some form of indigestion, first cousin to dyspepsia.

They wear that forlorn appearance, their energy is at zero, nothing interests them and their interest in no one, their faces are shriveled, their nerves are wilted and their shoulders sag. Are you one of the myriads who dandle and gratify their palates at the sacrifice of their stomachs? Are you one of those who allow their senses to run riot, eating too much, drinking too much, eating at the wrong time, eating the half-cooked, the queer and the impossible?

Are you bloated after eating and imagine that it is your food that fills you? Do you have nausea when you look upon this or that, rebel at one thing and be hungry for it, too, at the same time? And have you got a whole lot of other things the matter with your stomach that you know about but nobody else does, and can't explain? If so, you have dyspepsia. And the chances are you have had it a long time.

Your stomach is overworked, abused, fagged out. The gastric and digestive juices are weak, the muscles of the stomach are faded, and the whole business needs a new life. It needs something which will take hold of the food as it comes in and do the digesting, and let your stomach take a rest.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do that very thing. They contain a most perfect ingredient which helps the stomach in the process of digestion, cures dyspepsia, sour stomach, indigestion, heartburn, eructations, acidity or fermentation. They invigorate the stomach, increase the flow of gastric juice, and do two-thirds of what the stomach would have to do without them. That gives the stomach some rest, and a chance to get right again.

You will feel the change first in your mind and heart and then over your whole body. You'll feel rosy and sweet. That's the object. You can get these effective little tablets at almost anywhere on earth for 50c a package.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the name.

The purpose of the convention is to bring together conference and district officers of the different organizations of the church, the pastors and representatives from the local churches and young people's societies within the bounds of the Wisconsin, West Wisconsin, Minnesota and Northern Minnesota Conferences, for the consideration of some of the problems fundamental to the Christian occupation of the unevangelized nations and also for prayer, fellowship and discussion of methods and the best helps available for fulfilling the great missionary purpose of the church.

Among those who have been assigned parts in the program are Bishops E. G. Andrews, John H. Vincent and William F. McDowell. Assistant and Field Secretaries of the Methodist Episcopal Church, as follows: Drs. F. H. Sheets, of Chicago; J. C. Floyd, of Cincinnati; G. G. Logan, of Holy Springs, Miss.; the Rev. E. B. —FORTY YEARS AGO—

Jansville Daily Gazette, Monday, February 26, 1866.—Blockade of the Railroads.—The strong wind of Saturday afternoon and evening drifted the snow so badly as to blockade both railroads completely. The train which left for Madison soon after eight o'clock on Saturday evening went a short distance across the bridge but being unable to go any farther backed down to the station after two or three hours of vain attempts to proceed. This road was opened to proceed yesterday by a snow plow from Madison, which then started out on the main line to Milwaukee. No effort was made to run down on the Monroe branch with the plow and that train was compelled to work its own way through.

On the Northwestern Road, four trains—two passengers and two freight—were stalled between Jansville and Jefferson and were only relieved after arduous labor of a number of hours. A large gang of hands was kept at work shoveling snow but it drifted nearly as fast as it could be thrown away. The trains were all got to rights during the day yesterday and are on time today, save the Monroe train, which has not yet arrived as we went to press.

Clyde Horse for the Prairies.—This district of the country has long been famed for the superiority of this class of horses known as the Glasgow Clyde and dealers from a distance are always anxious to purchase of the farmers in this vicinity. We learn that Mr. McFar of Wisconsin purchased an animal of this breed from Mr. Jas. Ferris of Beverly. The horse was bred by Mr. Irving, foreman on Logan's farm near Montreal, who imported both sire and dam from Ayrshire, Scotland, and was procured from him by Mr. Ferris at the Lower Canada Provincial Exhibition last September. The colt promises to be a first class stallion, and possesses the docility and cheerfulness of temper characteristic of true bred Clydes with strength and quality of bone and muscle rarely to be seen. His age is two years in June and his present weight is 1,700 pounds. We believe Mr. McFar intends to take one or two first class mares with him to the west also.

The above paragraph is from the Dumfries (Canada) Advertiser, and the gentleman above referred to as purchasing the horse is a citizen of Johnstown, in this county. We congratulate him on securing such valuable animals.

We had supposed that Grandpa Grosvenor had secured vested rights in his job in congress.

When Iowa and Nebraska get through trying Pat Crowe some of the other states might like a chance.

That noble bird, the American hen, saw her duty the moment she heard that the egg market had been cornered.

Idaho had to have some kind of sensation. Montana is not to have all the advertising even if it is run by a copper combine.

As between a lock canal and one at sea level Senator Morgan is still firmly in favor of one by the Nicaragua route.

Probably the idea of having a congress without Gen. Grosvenor is one to which the country can get accustomed in time.

There is a possibility of the czar's acting as mediator at Algiers. The czar is in a position to know what a fine thing peace is.

No doubt a "punitive expedition" into China will punish some one, though which side will get the punishing is not exactly clear.

These are days of nerve-racking anguish in the navy department. Twice its beloved dry dock has broken its towline and gone adrift.

One alarming feature as regards the Panama canal situation is that it will cause another oratorical eruption from Senator Morgan.

For a congressman who has hungry constituents clamoring for consularships any excuse is a good enough reason for defeating the consular bill.

A connecticut woman died at the age of 105, and there is still an older woman in that state. They got their start before the age of food adulterants.

Mr. Rockefeller, at least, is not out off from telephatic communication with the gentlemen who issue the orders, putting up the price of kerosene.

Grover Cleveland will take his time in selecting a number of new large words from the dictionary before he feels fit to take up the case of the person who represents him as despairing of the democracy.

This suggestion that the house may kill the consular bill for fear that it infringes on the senate's constitutional prerogatives shows whether or not there are any great American humorists left.

Castro has published an article advocating "true brotherhood among nations." He will be talking in that strala more eloquently than ever when the expected French fleet comes into view.

MR. WELLMAN'S VENTURE.
Mr. Walter Wellman, the explorer who hopes to find the North Pole with the assistance of a self-propelled airship, has spent several weeks in Paris consulting aeronautic experts there in regard to details of his project. It was necessary for him to reach a decision about these before giving an order for the construction of the craft in which he means to embark. On one point Mr. Wellman's advisers seem to have differed widely. The majority of them favored a slender model, conducive to high speed, and an equipment of engines having great power. Others recommended a shorter, stouter gas bag and less powerful motors. In a letter to "The Chicago Record-Herald," which is backing him, Mr. Wellman announces that he has adopted the latter plan, says the New York Tribune.

We believe that the choice was wise. The form which has received the explorer's approval gives an assurance of greater stability than does the other, and in an undertaking of this kind speed may well be sacrificed to safety. Furthermore, Mr. Wellman has been lead to believe that the low power motors require less gasoline for a given distance than engines of higher power. "Steam practice" at sea tends to strengthen confidence in that opinion, and fuel economy is by all odds the most important thing to consider. Mr. Wellman thinks it will be practicable to carry with him, when he leaves Spitzbergen, gasoline enough to take him five hundred miles northward to his destination and the same distance back to his base, and then to have enough left to travel eight hundred miles more. These calculations, if we are not mistaken, are based on the performance of his airship in a calm. How much more gasoline he would need if he encountered head winds is largely a matter of speculation, but it does not look as if his "factor of safety," if it may be so called, were any too large. He cannot plan too carefully to get the largest mileage possible out of a given supply of fuel.

SOUND SENSE ON THE CANAL.
High level or sea level, masonry dams or mud dams, government work or contract work, Tweedledum or Tweedledee, there is at least one thing sure about the enterprise which we have undertaken at Panama. That thing was suggested with characteristic and epigrammatic force by Secretary Taft in his speech at Detroit the other night. He had been speaking of the current investigation into canal affairs, and had made it clear that neither he nor the President nor anybody else in authority shrank from the most searching scrutiny of everything that had been done. But, he continued:

"After one thorough investigation has been completed and every truthful man and every liar has been heard, then let the work go on. You can't be answering questions and building a canal at the same time. You can't have the chief engineer and the other constructing officers engaged in that work both in Washington and on the isthmus. Therefore, I say that all those who wish to be heard ought to be heard now, or ever after hold their peace."

There spoke the voice of horse sense, as well as of pure reason, and it is to be hoped it was widely heard and will be widely heeded. Of course, there must be investigation and discussion. But some day there ought to be an end of it, and that day ought to be well this side of the Greek Kalends. Even Mr. Poultney Bigelow ought to be able to give in twenty-eight hours and ten minutes (don't forget the ten minutes!) a sufficiently comprehensive conspectus of his impressions, investigations, conclusions, criticisms and condemnations acquired during his painstaking labors of twenty-eight hours and ten minutes (don't forget the ten minutes!) at Panama, and surely nobody else would dream of asking for more time than would suffice for him. Open the doors and windows. Let the cavern of Aeolus be rended asunder. Let everything be said that is to be said. But when it is all over, a day or a week or a month hence, let it, indeed, be all over; and with the talker-talker ended, let us realize that to adapt for the thousand and first time one of Horace Greeley's historic phrases—the way to dig a canal is to dig it.

Lincoln on "Shoveling Fleas."
St. Louis Globe-Democrat: In a speech at a Lincoln dinner in New York Gen. Horace Porter recalled that Mr. Lincoln once said it was "a losing game to undertake to shovel fleas across a barnyard." That is sufficiently incisive, and apt to be accepted by history and fill a long-felt want in phrases.

Exchange: The London Times recalls that it is not seven years since Castro came down from the Andes at the head of eighty men and overthrew the president of Venezuela. From the Philadelphia Ledger.
The senator from Wisconsin has resolved to send to prison for five years any who accepted a pass.

Soiled As It Tumbled.
Harper's Weekly: The elderly lady who was looking through the shop of a dealer in knickknacks picked up a small handbag. "Are you sure," she inquired, "that this is real crocodile skin?" "Absolutely certain, madame," replied the dealer. "I shot that crocodile myself." "It looks rather soiled," observed his customer. "Naturally, madame," explained the salesman; "that is where it struck the ground when it tumbled off the tree."

Ice As A Cigar Lighter.
Madison Democrat: The skater's matches were all gone, but nevertheless he smiled.

"I'll light my cigar with a piece of ice," he said.
"A piece of ice? Rubbish!"
But, still smiling, the young man carved a fragment of ice into a rude lens, and held beneath the lens his cigar. The rays of the sun concentrated on the cigar in a round, bright spot of gold. Soon this spot began to smoke. Another moment and the cigar was lighted.

An Ice Lens. said the skater, putting up "concentrates the heat of the sun almost as well as a glass lens. I have seen a giant ice lens make water boil. Ice boiling water—almost improbable, eh?"

A Cantankerous Hoosier.
Evening Wisconsin: The Linton, Indiana, man who objected to the humorous sallies made by a Chicago actress at the expense of his town committed an error of judgment when he concluded that the way to vindicate Linton and Indiana was to "haul out his revolver and shoot the lady on the stage. The actress was not dangerously injured, but all Hoosierdom, and especially the town of Linton, will for years to come loom in the imagination of many newspaper readers in all parts of the country in connection with the ideas of over-sensitiveness and crude violence. Some of the witnesses aver, as if in palliation of the shooting, that "the man was drunk. But this does not help matters; it merely complicates them. Drunken men carrying weapons and ugly-tempered enough to use them are not admitted to reputable playhouses in model towns. Certainly the incident is in startling contrast with the claims of Indiana as the central seat of poetry and polite culture on the North American continent."

NO JURY TRIALS THIS WEEK

None of the Attorneys Were Ready to Begin Before Next Monday—Several Jurors Excused.

When the circuit court calendar was called this morning it was found that none of the attorneys were ready to try their cases this week and the jury was excused until next Monday. Six jurors were permanently excused. Alfred Raubenheimer of the fourth ward, city of Beloit, informed Judge Dunwiddie that he was but nineteen years of age and there was no argument in his case. E. Brinkman of the town of Rock, William Elv of Port, George Boss of Milton, F. H. Ois of the town of Rock, and R. K. Overton of La Prairie had exors who were deemed sufficient. D. C. Heald of the second ward, Beloit, said that his hearing was very poor and that he was too nervous to sit long in a jury box. He asked to secure an excuse from his physician.

Some Little Complications. In one instance trifling complications arose owing to the changes that have taken place in the status of attorneys since litigation was commenced. Charles C. Pierce is the defendant's lawyer in the criminal action for assault. John L. Fisher, his law partner, being district attorney would have to prosecute the case, under ordinary circumstances. The court this morning appointed John Cunningham to act in his place. In the suit of Joseph Donahoe vs. John R. Donahoe, E. H. Ryan represents the plaintiff and O. A. Oestreich, the defendant. These two attorneys became partners since the litigation was started. Happily, there is no contest and a stipulation to enter judgment has been entered.

Disposition of The Cases. The damage case of Moss Anderson vs. the Fairbanks-Morse Co. of Beloit, was set for trial on March 5. The action of Johanna Murphy vs. the C. & N. W. Ry. Co., with Drs. W. H. Palmer and E. F. Woods as codefendants, brought to recover damages for alleged unauthorized post mortem mutilation of the body of Switchman Broderick who was killed by a switch engine, is also set for trial. Motions to dismiss were introduced in the actions of James A. Bowditch vs. Chas. C. Clark and Gertrude B. Whitford vs. Chas. W. McCarthy. Kate Mattick's action to recover $500 damages from the city of Janesville for the stoppage and overflow of sewers in the neighborhood of the Fountain House, will not be tried during this term.

That $13,000 Suit. The suit of R. T. Hanrahan et al vs. the City of Janesville, brought to recover $13,000 for alleged "extra" sewer work, is set for trial sometime after April 1. The action of Oscar Prybil vs. Andrew Erickson goes to the foot of the calendar. The two actions of Harry Hardwick vs. Chas. F. Tallard are set for trial on March 5. The action of Margaret McComb vs. the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. Co., brought to recover damages for mental anguish and fright sustained by reason of the collision of a locomotive and the baby carriage she was wheeling, at the West Bluff street crossing, is set for trial on March 12. The action of the Town of Plymouth against the same defendant will be tried without a jury. The action of Louis Keisling vs. Martha Keisling also goes before the court.

Judge Stevens For Phone Cases.

In the actions of Robert M. Dostwick, Samuel Henderson, Clara L. Jenkins, W. B. Conrad, C. B. Conrad, and Mary M. Stevens against the Rock County Telephone Co., arising out of the disputed right-of-way for cables in the alley west of the Hayes block, a jury is to be waived and Judge Stevens of Madison will pass upon the merits of the controversy some time in April. The trial of the action of George Payler vs. the C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co., who seeks damages for being thrown out of his wagon in a collision with a caboose at Broadhead, will be tried immediately after the McComb case on March 12 and the action of Charles R. Fox against A. W. Drafa will follow it. The Struthers-Wells Co. vs. H. Huennelco Co. and F. C. Randall vs. H. C. Donnelly and Anna McNeil actions will not be tried this term. The Second Bank of Beloit vs. the Beloit Water Power Co. action is continued by consent.

Wis. Telephone Co. Action.

The action of Edward Mathews vs. Charles Schmaling et al will be tried. That of P. M. Ellington vs. Chas. R. Bentley et al is in process of settlement. The action brought against the Wisconsin Telephone Co. by Attorney General Davidson for alleged discrimination in rates in the city of Beloit will be tried sometime after April 1. Likewise the shoe case of R. P. Smith & Sons Co. vs. Paul Rudolph which is taken up on appeal from municipal court where the verdict was for the defendant; the action of Richard Valentine vs. the Rock County Telephone Co. to obtain compensation alleged to be due for his services as president; and the action of William Burger, who was struck on the head and shoulders by weights falling in the elevator shaft last July and was alleged to have had a piece of his hat driven into his skull, against the Rock County Sugar Co. for damages. The action of Reckhow vs. Aspland will be tried by the court.

Behrend Case This Week

A controversy over the ownership of the alley adjoining the St. Paul freight house is involved in the action of Mary Behrend vs. the C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co., which is to be tried without a jury. Testimony and arguments will be heard this week. The court action of H. A. Moehlenpach vs. William A. Mayhew was put on the jury calendar. A motion to strike from the calendar was introduced in the case of R. Harper vs. John Hamm et al. Among the court cases set for trial is that of Catherine Welch, administrator of the estate of Luke Welch, deceased, vs. the Rock County National bank and P. Burnham. It is a suit where the bank took a note for collection and, according to the claim of the plaintiff, failed to notify the indorser. When the indorser was sued years ago he proved that he had not been notified and escaped payment. The plaintiff now seeks to recover from the bank. Lawrence Cronin's action against the Rock County Sugar Co. to recover damages for cattle alleged to have suffered in his pasture by the alleged pollution of a stream flowing by the factory, is another. The Janesville Electric Co. has an action against P. H. Norcross regarding the division of the profits obtained in lighting the city of Edgerton. The Sawyer & Austin Lumber Co. seeks to compel D. K. Jeffris et al to pay for window jambs which were delayed in transit and refused when delivery was finally made.

The Loop Question Again

Action No. 77 in the issues of law for the court, is the matter of the petition of the Beloit, Delavan Lake & Janesville Ry. Co. Property holders on the loop secured an injunction against the interurban some years ago, but this was stayed to allow the interurban company to start injunctive proceedings. The present petition asks for the appointment of commissioners for the condemnation of the right of way. If the interurban company loses the case it will either have to buy the right of way or take up its track.

WEDDED TODAY AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Miss Violet Anna Hess Married to Rudolph McCummins—Other Social News.

Miss Violet Anna Hess and Mr. Rudolph McCummins were married at St. Mary's church this morning at eight o'clock. Rev. Father Goebel performed the ceremony. Harry Smith acted as best man and Miss Anna McCarthy as bridesmaid. The happy couple left on a short wedding trip after which they will be at home to their friends in this city.

Mrs. Albert Schnell was hostess of twelve ladies at her home on Milton avenue Saturday afternoon. Six-handed euchre was the amusement of the occasion and first honors were captured by Mrs. Mae Smiley. Dainty refreshments were served.

In honor of Miss Bertha Appley of Chicago, Miss Constance Pender entertained at a dinner party last Friday evening at half-past six o'clock. Twenty-four young people were present and the affair proved most delightful.

MISS FIFIELD HURT WORSE THAN THOUGHT

Janesville Young Lady in Street Car Accident in Milwaukee Badly Bruised.

Miss Winifred Fifield, who was injured in the collision between a fast train and a street car in Milwaukee Saturday, is much more seriously hurt than was at first thought. Miss Fifield was the only lady in the car and with the thirteen other passengers and car men was thrown across two tracks—over ten feet. She was assisted from the car and afterwards taken to her friends' home in a carriage. Her injuries at first were thought trivial, but a telephone message today says that she was badly bruised and slightly out and is in bed unable to be moved. Her mother, Mrs. Frank Fifield, went to Milwaukee this afternoon. Miss Fifield was the least injured of any of the passengers and it is said to have been a wonder that all in the car were not killed outright. The blame for the accident has not yet been placed.

JUSTICE DELAYED BY COST OF THE SUITS

Lincoln District Attorney Does Not Believe Money To Be Expended Worth While.

In a Monroe paper the following item relative to the murder of S. B. Winter, said to have been a resident of Janesville, in Lincoln, Nebraska, on September 2, 1904, appeared: "Jim Young, the negro horseman who shot S. B. Winter of Janesville, a brother-in-law to M. E. Baltzer of this city (Monroe), at the state fair grounds at Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 2, 1904, has been discharged by the district court. Young was tried for murder, and was convicted of murder in the second degree and was sentenced to the penitentiary for fifteen years. His attorneys secured a stay of sentence and appealed it to the supreme court which reversed the verdict of the lower court. The murderer has been out on $10,000 bail ever since. Thursday the case came up and the county attorney announced that he had decided to dismiss the case, giving as one reason that 'it would cost the county more than $1,000 to try the case again and even then, with the ruling of the supreme court regarding the place where the tragedy occurred at Young's domicile, it is doubtful whether a conviction could be secured.' According to this if the expense of trying a murderer in Nebraska is over $1,000 the accused is turned loose."

DERAILMENT BLOCKS ELECTRIC TRAFFIC

Accident Happened South of City Yesterday Afternoon—No One Was Injured.

A car on the Rockford, Beloit & Janesville Electric railway was derailed at Kelly's curve, a half mile below the Choate-Hollister furniture factory, yesterday afternoon and traffic on the line was resultantly blocked for nearly six hours. The car, which figured in the accident was a south-bound, having left here at 2:15 and was in charge of Motorman Charles Brinkman. The accident was due to a spreading of the rails and though not going at a high speed the car broke from the forward track, which had been stopped in the soft earth, and all but toppled into the ditch. The car was well filled with people, but luckily not a one was injured, even the motorman escaping without a scratch or a bruise. Among the passengers was Miss Edna Murdock of this city. The wrecker was immediately called from Beloit, but the damage done to the car and to the rails was considerable and it was nearly eight o'clock before a car arrived in the city. Meanwhile more than a hundred passengers had congregated at the interurban station and the car at 8:15 left with scarcely standing room on the rear platform. This is the third accident that has occurred at Kelly's curve, one having happened the first year the road was in operation and another last year.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE OF THREE PERSONS

Were Thrown from Rig, Which Was Struck by Street Car, Yesterday Morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven S. Higby, 3 North Vista avenue, and a second woman met with an accident yesterday morning from which they escaped with nothing more serious than slight bruises, but what might easily have been very serious. They were on their way to church in a single rig, when in crossing the South Main street car tracks at the corner of Court street they were run into by a street car, the fender and vestibule striking the horse. The animal was thrown from his feet and the buggy tipped over. The three occupants were gently thrown to the ground and only one complained of sustaining a painful injury, which was on the shoulder. The horse, floundered about but before it could rise and run was seized and held by a witness of the accident.

A. P. Burnham of This City and Partner Were High Score Winners in Friday Night Events at Chicago.

Arthur P. Burnham of this city and F. G. Bush of Chicago won the high score in open pairs at the Friday evening contests of the Chicago Whist Association, which closed its seventh annual carnival Saturday night. LOCAL LACONICS

Will Go to Freeport: Physical Director J. A. Ward and four members of the local Y. M. C. A. will go to Freeport tomorrow evening to participate in an interurban gymnastic meet. The events will be side horse work and pole vault. Freeport and Rockford will play basketball.

Need of Inspection: The disappearance of the snow and ice and the actual bareness which is revealed to the eye of pedestrians show that many walks in the city need careful inspection and overhauling this coming spring. In some cases walks are missing; in others change in grade made; bad bumps, and in still others rotten boards endanger the steps of pedestrians who are unfortunate enough to have to walk over them.

Rock River High: Owing to the sudden thaw of the past week Rock river is very high and is flowing within a few inches of its banks at the present time. While no danger is anticipated it is possible that heavy rains at this time might do considerable damage to the upper and lower ends of the city.

Justice Court Action: The action of Geo. Brease vs. the C. & N. W. Ry. Co. to cover $317 overcharge in a shipment of granite from Indiana, which was to come up in Justice Reeder's court this afternoon, was settled, the railroad company agreeing to make the refund.

Gets Wedding Announcements: Dr. W. H. Judd today received from Warren S. Young, executive clerk at the White House, one of the engraved announcements of the Longworth-Roosevelt wedding. The stationery bears the national coat of arms.

Marriage Licenses: Applications for marriage licenses have been filed by Rudolph McCummins of Janesville and Violet Hess of Africa, Victor Berg and Augusta Nelson, both of Beloit.

Notices of Injury: Anna Bull and Henry P., her husband, have served notices on the city reciting the fact that owing to the alleged want of repair of the sidewalk on Franklin street near the intersection of Pleasant street, the first-named fell and was seriously injured on the night of Feb. 17.

Judge Earle Receiver: The Beloit baseball association has gone into the hands of a receiver. It will be the duty of Justice Earle, if receiver, to commence actions against the individual stockholders for the debts outstanding, one of the largest of which is the $100 due Former Manager Buser.

Bad Youths Released: Arthur Wheelock and Michael Burns, the two young boys who were captured by Officer Peter Champion while in the act of stealing rubbers from the D. J. Luby shoe store Saturday evening, were released today, the management refusing to enter a formal complaint against them. One of the boys will be sent away to a school where strict discipline is enforced. The Wheelock had lived in the Ogden block on Milwaukee street.

Christ church Lenten services: Ash Wednesday at 10 and 7:15 p. m.; Thursday at 7:15 p. m.

BREAST CANCER.

I have had a number of letters recently, asking me to again give instructions for the home treatment of cancerous swellings of the breast. One poor woman writes a most heart-rending letter, telling of having passed through a severe surgical operation after a most careful diagnosis made by three eminent physicians in New York and Boston. After the operation was over, however, the surgeon informed her that it had all been a mistake—there was no cancer, simply a cyst, which is very common.

Breast cancer is one of the most severe afflictions to which suffering humanity is subject. Any real remedy for it may be highly valued, but, probably, that which is most important in the way of making a good use of a remedy is intelligence in reference to the trouble itself. It is quite common that in the breasts of women there frequently appear small swellings that can be felt to be about the size of pigeons' eggs, or less, and that cause no inconvenience. These come and go often without attracting any attention; but they sometimes come and do not go till they have attracted notice. If the patient has had a sharp blow, and sometimes after one of these egg-shaped swellings is felt in the breast, it will not then be likely to go away without some effort to cause it to do so. Such "lumps," as they may be called, are most easily dispelled in their early stages; all that is needed is a long effective heating and massage of the breast, and all is made perfectly right and well in an hour or so. Such swellings frequently disappear with only one-half hour's treatment. The breast is placed over a basin of warm water, as warm as is very comfortable. This water is laved on the breast, the heat being kept up with fresh supplies of water, for perhaps ten minutes or a quarter of an hour. Then warm olive oil may be rubbed on, and the breast gently pressed and manipulated so as to stimulate vital action in its whole substance. When this is done for, say, five minutes, the bathing should be resumed for ten minutes, or so, and then the rubbing on of oil again. But it must be understood this is only when the lumps in the breast are in their early stages. The hot treatment will not do when they have got beyond such stages. My object in this paper is chiefly to treat of them when they have gotten beyond the time when hot treatment will do. When such tumors, or swellings, have begun to grow, as if separate growths in the breast, heat will only hasten that growth. It is usually long after this has taken place that remedial help is sought. Months after it is too late to use warm treatment one is asked what is to be done with a breast that has got all wrong, and is under the dominion of a diseased substance that is growing within it? Now is the time when an inferior medical man advises that the breast be taken off. The physician who knows and feels for his fellow creatures advises that no cutting should be allowed, nor any one thing that can irritate at all. Here is the point at which I usually find myself called to say what should be done. But there is another point of a similar character at which I am also frequently called to advise. That is when the breast has been cut off, and the evil growth has begun to show itself again. This occurs usually in a year or so after the operation. Whether it is at one or the other of these times, there is one obvious remedy. It is that of simply starving the diseased growth so as to arrest it. Now this may be effectually done, and the sorely tried patient may be saved a world of pain, and even cured effectually. More than one apparently desperate case has been presented in which effective cooling accomplishes this, and secures the patient unspokeable precious rest without narcotics. But this is not all. It puts an effectual stop to the swelling. If the case has not gone very far, but is still one of a very formidable character, the swelling falls, and even disappears; but even when it has gone too far for this, the disease is stayed and every symptom of it is lessened. All swelling but the actual separate growth is removed. For instance, when the swelling has passed from the breast into the arm-pit, it is dispelled and entirely confined to the actual substance of the tumor. Now, how is this managed? Simply by the persistent and vigorous use of cold towels. They must be large enough to allow of four-fold covering of the whole breast. They are wrung out of cold water at first, and, if possible, cooled with ice instead of being wrung out after. One at a time is kindly pressed all round and over the swollen breast. It is heated by the breast in one or two minutes and must be changed. The second is pressed round and all over the breast in the same way. It also is heated, but you may have three of them in a circle, and if you have a bit of ice to wrap around those that are cooling you have cold enough. Some would put on an ice bag, and let it lie, but I do not advise this. It is very apt to destroy the outer skin by too severe cold, and it does not abstract heat so rapidly as is done by a substance that is nearer the temperature of the heated breast. This treatment requires work—no doubt of that—but its effects are well worth the work it requires. A nurse who is prepared to do her best for a suffering sister will not grudge the work, and she will find out how to moderate her own efforts so that as much good may be done beyond the point at which human efforts are fitted to save life, and a nurse, one who is rewarded by seeing good done, and help given, will not lose her reward even then, for she will see that she has been owned of God to give much relief when it was greatly needed.

When the cooling treatment, given twice each day or oftener, if it can be so without discomfort, has reduced the swelling, and put back the tumor, till it may be fairly regarded as capable of absorption, it will be well to try the effect of hot fomentation by bathing, as first described. This will not do harm, but good, if it is only used so far as to try whether the stage for hot treatment has been reached. If the hot bathing is agreeable, and instead of causing pain rather soothes and comforts, it may be strongly tried. But this will be only if the effectual cooling has put back the disease, so that it has been really mastered. So long as the separate substance shows a tendency to increase it will be well to press in upon it the starving influence.

It is not to be forgotten that the origin of all such growths—those that never give trouble and those that do—loss of vital action, such as removes waste substance, instead of allowing it to accumulate anywhere, and which causes it to ripen so that it is easily removed. It is well when possible to use means such as may increase that vital action in the system generally. If this is done, and the diseased growth is, at the same time, effectually starved, we may hope for a cure even in very trying cases. Don't imagine that such a case is to be cured with one treatment or even two, but keep it up for weeks or even months if necessary, and also use the additional methods of which I have several times told you.

CLUB NOTES.

Minnesota.—Dr. David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: We have been subscribers to this paper over ten years, but I do not think it has ever been so instructive as it is now. The first thing I look for when the paper comes, is your good and helpful lectures, for which I am very thankful to you. Now I wish to present some questions to you. Our youngest child is one year old, its tongue is skinless nearly all the time, although at times only in part. For the remainder he is well. We have a girl nine years old, who three years ago fell and got a cut in one leg. It is not an open sore, but is something like a boil, at times accumulating matter. Do you think it is necessary to have an operation on it? I have not consulted any doctor for it as yet. I will be very thankful to you for advice. Now I wish to tell you what I do when the children take cold. First bathe their feet in water as hot as they can stand, then give them something hot to drink, and give them to bed. Next morning they will be better. I have overcome the worst fevers by mixing 20 drops of aconite in one glass of water, one teaspoonful every other hour. For younger children, one drop in three teaspoonfuls of water. Again, thanking you, I am, Mrs. J. G.

I am glad you as well as so many others are so thoroughly interested in the important subject of health. It is said that there was at one time a period of 600 years in the history of Rome in which there were no physicians in the city. Good health by right living and observing the laws of nature was the condition of the Romans, and I am convinced that such a condition could only have been secured by reason of the fact that the doctors who taught these people were of the right sort. Their teachings were so true, however, that they destroyed their own profession.

The trouble with your boy's tongue is caused by some error in his diet, and the condition of his tongue is but an indication of the condition of his stomach. It will be necessary for you to give me a very careful description of the child and tell me of what his diet consists. If he is nursing, and takes no other food, tell me of your own diet; give a full description of what he eats, how often and how much. The little girl has probably bruised the bone of the leg and the sore is deep seated. You should apply the treatment given for home cure of diseases of the bone, even if the bone is not injured and is not diseased. This treatment, which is quite simple, should be applied, and the additional treatment of which I have written you should also be carried out. I thank you for the suggestion for the benefit of others in regard to colds and fevers.

Nebraska.—Dr. David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: Your kind inquiry has been received and I am glad to inform you that the sores on my eye and face are well. I effected a cure by using the acid and oil as you directed. Please accept my gratitude and kindest regards. Yours truly, R. R. This case was supposed to be cancer on the eyelid. Comment is unnecessary.

FIND BODIES OF CADETS IN RUINS OF SCHOOL

Remains of Young Men Who Lost Lives in Fire at Gambier, Ohio, Are Close Together.

Gambier, Ohio, Feb. 26.—The charred bodies of Cadets Winfield Scott Kunkle, of Ashabula, Ohio; J. E. Henderson, of Ridge Farm, Ill., and James J. Fuller, of Warren, Ohio, were found in the ruins of Delano hall Sunday afternoon.

The bodies of Fuller and Henderson lay close together. They had been roommates. It is believed that they were suffocated to death in bed. The lifeless forms were also close to the beds they had occupied and lay in the basement, almost directly beneath their room. Kunkle's body has been carried to the west with the falling floors. Trouble was experienced in finding it. The fathers of the cadets hurried to Gambier Saturday night and were present when the finding of the bodies removed the last doubt as to their fate.

There is no satisfactory explanation as to what caused the fire. Some are of opinion that only rags may have caused spontaneous combustion. The floors of the buildings were oiled and this, in part at least, accounts for the rapidity with which the building burned.

WIFE IS MURDERED IN SICKBED

Husband Sued for Divorce. Brutally Kills His Spouse.

Mrs. Hodges had recently instituted divorce proceedings against her husband.

RATE MEASURE BEFORE SENATE

Great Contest Between People and Public Service Corporations Is On.

ALDRICH'S MOVE IS BOOMERANG

Placing Mr. Tillman in Charge of Bill on Floor in Effort to Inject Politics. Unites Heretofore Discordant Elements in Its Support.

Washington, Feb. 26.—When Senator Tillman, as the authorized spokesman for the committee on interstate commerce, reported the Hepburn rate regulation bill Monday there was inaugurated in the senate possibly the fiercest contest between the public and the public service corporations that ever has taken place in that body. The fighting up to date has been mere skirmishing compared to that which lies directly ahead.

One of the most sensational results of the action of Aldrich and other senators in injecting politics into the rate question is likely to be the bringing together of the Wisconsin senators—Spooner and La Follette—in support of legislation as to which they have been supposed to be diametrically opposed. Senator Spooner, it is understood, is intensely indignant over the turn affairs have taken through the so-called Aldrich coup, and frankly has expressed his disapprobation at the White House.

Spencer, With President. Heretofore Spooner has been counted against the president's policy of rate legislation, but there now is a belief he will array his powerful influence in the senate against the machinations of those of his party who are seeking to prevent action, and eventually become a champion of the president's interests. Other Republican senators declare that Aldrich and his immediate cohorts not only have solidified the Democrats by their coup, but have so disgusted many "conservative" Republicans by their unparliamentary discourtesy to Senator Doolittle that the reaction will overwhelm them.

All interests feel that the crisis is approaching, and both sides have been stripping for the fray. The lines have been drawn more tightly than ever before and the issue is clearly defined—whether there shall be legislation such as the people have demanded or whether there shall be no rate legislation at all at the present session of congress. The question of compromise amendments has been pushed into a secondary position, for the original friends of the government regulation idea now declare it better that rate legislation fall entirely than that an amendment extending the jurisdiction of the courts in the matter of findings by the interstate commerce commission beyond the power for review implied in the Hepburn measure be enacted into law.

Bill Is Constitutional.

It is stated on good authority that the railroad interests of the country have consulted the best legal talent of New York City since the passage of the Hepburn bill by the house, for the purpose of determining whether that measure as it stands is constitutional. Report declares that the lawyers consulted have informed their clients confidentially that the measure is constitutional in their opinion, and if this be so it means that the solicitude of certain senators over the question of constitutionality is only a bluff. If it really was believed the measure is unconstitutional, its supporters now declare, the interests that have been demanding a court review amendment would not exhibit so much anxiety. They would be willing to let the measure become a law, and then rest easy over the prospective result the first time the act was brought into the courts for a test, which would be as close to immediately as possible.

But, knowing that the measure is constitutional, its friends insist, the opposition wants to emasculate it, and, in fact, destroy its whole effect, by providing for review that will stay indefinitely every order made by the commission.

STATEHOOD VOTE.

Senate May Take Action if Conditions Are Favorable.

Washington, Feb. 26.—A vote on the statehood bill may be taken in the Senate this week. The friends of the railroad rate bill are anxious to get it out of the way to facilitate the consideration of that measure. Last session the statehood bill provoked long discussion and no senator is prepared to offer a new argument for or against it. A vote will not be permitted by the opponents of the bill for some time to come unless they control enough votes to secure the adoption of the Foraker amendment, which provides that the people of New Mexico and Arizona shall decide for themselves whether the two territories shall be admitted into the Union as a single state. Senator Foraker understands that enough senators have pledged themselves to his amendment to carry it. Notwithstanding the strength of the opposition, to the House bill, there is no diminution in the pressure from interests in the territories opposed to joint statehood. The Wells-Fargo Express Company, which has the friends of the bill claim, a monopoly through the railroads of all express business in the territories, is opposing the bill for the reason, it is asserted, that the company is satisfied with the taxation to which it is now subjected, and does not want present arrangements disturbed under which Uncle Sam lays all the odds "infield" to the hunting down of train robbers.

No Aid for Congo.

Washington, Feb. 26.—It is impossible for the government of the United States to investigate the condition of affairs in the Congo Free State or interfere in any way to correct the abuses which are known to exist, says Secretary of State Root in a letter to Representative Denby of Michigan, who, in response to the demands of his constituents, had appealed to the secretary for action. The United States, Secretary Root says, is a party to a general act for the suppression of the slave trade in Africa and the regulation of the traffic in firearms and liquor, but its powers are especially limited in that act. In addition there are no American consuls or representatives in the Congo to make an investigation, and it would be impossible without the consent of the Congo government, to send them there. Secretary Root says that it would be well if some power could enforce good government in that great region in the interior of Africa, but he can see no way in which the United States could do it.

Scandinavian Trade.

Washington, Feb. 26.—According to a bulletin issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor, the trade of the United States with the Scandinavian countries, Sweden, Denmark and Norway, for 1905 amounted to $32,000,000, of which $6,000,000 is imports from and $26,000,000 exports to those countries. In 1895 the total trade with those countries was $11,000,000, showing an increase of practically 200 percent in the last decade.

GUARDS AND OFFICERS KILLED.

Twenty-five Armed Men Make Attack in Suburb of Havana.

Havana, Feb. 26.—Two noncommissioned officers dead, two rural guards dying, and four more wounded, is the result of Cuba's latest uprising. Early Sunday morning, while the Longworths were still in the city, a group of armed men, estimated to number twenty-five, attacked the rural guards at the station at Guanabacoa, a suburb of Havana, where fourteen guards were sleeping. The gang divided into two groups, one entering the quarters, where they found the guards unprepared for an attack. The gang is said to have shouted, "long live the constitutional liberty party; down with the rural guard."

Mr. and Mrs. Longworth left on a special train at 9 o'clock Sunday night. Before going they visited the Bronson, where Mrs. Longworth threw a rose to Mañala, the famous pelota player. Subsequently they drove an hour in the Prado and came back covered with confetti. Sunday being the first day of the carnival, immense crowds were on the streets. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Longworth were guests at a dinner given by Secretary of State O'Fallon. Minister Morgan was also present.

While at Santiago Mr. and Mrs. Longworth will visit the battle fields. They return on Thursday, when they will leave for the United States.

Ten more lives were lost in 1905 than in 1904, the fatal accidents numbering thirty-eight inside the mines, and ten outside.

ALL the charm of being original, without, however, incurring the reproach of being odd or eccentric, is expressed in this dainty little chapeau of straw and roses and velvet ribbons. The crown follows the prevailing drum shape and sets comfortably to the shape of the head. The brim is double, with a fascinating dip in the center front, the upper part trimmed with a long wreath of loops of pale blue velvet ribbons, and the lower part with little white Scotch roses. The double brim is broad on the sides, narrowing to almost nothing in the back, and tilts delightfully at one side to let the ribbon bow that confines little Milla's locks show itself. The underbrim is faced with one of those novel pompadour printed nets, the design being roses and forget-me-nots upon a pale pink tinted ground. Quaint looking too strings of the narrow velvet ribbon are brought from the back and caught loosely without tying in the front.

THE IDEAL WIFE

Shapes the Destiny of Men—The Influence of a Healthy Woman Cannot Be Overestimated.

Seven-eighths of the men in this world marry a woman because she is beautiful in their eyes, because she has the qualities which inspire admiration, respect and love.

There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature. The influence of women glorious in the possession of perfect physical health upon men and upon the civilization of the world could never be measured. Because of them men have attained the very heights of ambition; because of them even thrones have been established and destroyed.

What a disappointment, then, to see the fair young wife's beauty fading away before a year passes over her head! A sickly, half-dead and alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home; and a drag upon her husband.

The cost of a wife's constant illness is a serious drain upon the funds of a household, and too often all the doctoring does no good. If a woman finds her energies flagging, and that everything tires her, dark shadows appear under her eyes, her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams, if she has backache, headaches, bearing down pains, nervousness, irregularities, or despondency, she should take means to build her system up at once by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This great remedy for women has done more in the way of restoring health to the women of America than all other medicines put together. It is the safeguard of woman's health.

Following we publish, by request, a letter from a young wife.

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley, of 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with exhaustion, female weakness, bearing down pains, headache and worried headache. It affected my stomach so that I could not enjoy my meals, and half my time was spent in bed. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail."

He goes there in order to see Miss Annesley, who has been charged to see young Russian count whom he met on steamer, bring Miss Annesley to dinner. Next morning the Count and the Annesleys had disappeared.

CHAPTER IV.—Warburton goes to Washington to visit his relatives. He is met by his father, who holds a prominent position, and a sister engaged to an old school chum of his. Invited to accompany family to ball at British embassy, but declines. He goes to the embassy alone, and is introduced to play a joke on his sister and sister-in-law.

CHAPTER V.—Warburton meets his sister's fiancé whom he had not seen for eight years. He is introduced to the embassy ball, and proceeds to put his joke into execution, which is to disguise himself as a coachman and drive his sister and sister-in-law to their home.

CHAPTER VI.—Warburton in his disguise goes to British embassy and takes place of his sister's fiancé, whom he has bribed. He mistakes his carriage number when called and gets the wrong passengers without knowing it. Driven frantically about the streets, pursued by mounted policemen. When carriage comes to a stop he springs down and throws his arms about the first of the passengers, who is a young man, to be Miss Annesley instead of his sister.

CHAPTER VII.—Warburton is arrested on a charge of drunkenness and abduction preferred by Miss Annesley and locked up over night. In police court, where he has given the name of James Osborne, the charge of abduction is withdrawn but he is fined $30 for drunkenness. He is released, and his old chum, telling of his trouble.

CHAPTER VIII.—"Chuck" takes suit of clothes and money to pay the fine to city jail, only to find that fine had been paid. Warburton, in name of James Osborne, receives note from Miss Annesley offering him position of coachman, which he decides to accept in spite of protests of his friends. He goes to explain his disappearance to his relatives, by stating that he had gone north suddenly on a hunting trip.

CHAPTER IX.—Miss Annesley, after closely questioning Warburton (known to her as James Osborne) at her home, hires him on probation. While being shown about the stables expressed desire to ride an exceptional vicious thoroughbred called "Fido." With Miss Annesley's permission he saddles and mounts the horse, which immediately bolts.

CHAPTER X.—After a fierce struggle Warburton succeeds in mastering "Fido" in the presence of Miss Annesley. He receives no word of praise, but is told by Col. Annesley and daughter in which he tells her that he has invited the young Russian Count to dine with them on the morrow.

CHAPTER XI.—Warburton assumes his duties as groom to Miss Annesley and her mother. He is given a French coach, a maid of the same nationality and a stable boy. Takes his first ride with Miss Annesley and is further questioned about his past.

CHAPTER XII.—The French chef gives Warburton lesson in serving at table as he is to act as butler at a dinner the next week. Miss Annesley gives her groom a shock when she orders him to drive her to a ball on his sister's party. He is not recognized by any of his relatives.

CHAPTER XIII.—Four days pass and Warburton, as a coachman, is completely butler; he met Count Karloff twice and has not been recognized. Miss Annesley takes a notion to ride "Fido" who runs away and she is saved from a bad accident with great difficulty by Warburton.

CHAPTER XIV.—While driving Miss Annesley in the city Warburton meets his friend "Chuck," who gives him information about the Russian Count. He is also told of the Russian Count's love for Miss Annesley, who has once refused his offer of marriage. Mrs. Chadwick, who still loves the count, notified him that she has the power to destroy his future prospects and to prevent his marriage to her friend.

CHAPTER XV.—An account of the downfall of Col. Annesley, who previously to the opening of his story lost his own and his daughter's money at Monte Carlo. He is approached by the young Russian diplomat, Count Karloff, who loans him $20,000, and tempts him by showing how he can make $50,000 by betraying his country, by furnishing military secrets to Russia.

CHAPTER XVI.—Count Karloff and Mrs. Chadwick, who previously to the opening of his story lost his own and his daughter's money at Monte Carlo, He is approached by the young Russian diplomat, Count Karloff, who loans him $20,000, and tempts him by showing how he can make $50,000 by betraying his country, by furnishing military secrets to Russia.

CHAPTER XVII.—After some final instructions Warburton discharges the duties of butler so well that at Miss Annesley's dinner he attracts the attention of his former commanding officer, Col. Raleigh, who makes inquiries of the host regarding him and tells Miss Annesley stories of his doings as a soldier.

CHAPTER XVIII.—After his duties as butler were over Warburton goes outside and stands under the bow window listening to the music. Miss Annesley appears on the balcony in her moonlight and after refusing another proposal from Count Karloff, she throws away a rose which she has been fondling. After she had returned to the house Warburton searches for and finds the flower, when he is surprised by Col. Raleigh, who demands an explanation of his conduct.

CHAPTER XIX.—Col. Raleigh accompanies Warburton to his room in the stable and listens to an account of his escapade and of his love for Miss Annesley. The colonel decides not to expose the masquerade but gives him some fatherly advice.

CHAPTER XX.—A stovepipe's timely fall and the consequent soot and dirt on Warburton's face serve as a disguise when his sister, Nancy, calls on Miss Annesley. While on a chance visit to the library Warburton discovers fortification plans which Miss Annesley has drawn for her father. Spends a bad night trying to determine upon his

The Woman: As I have said, some day you will understand. Treat Karloff as you have always treated him, politely and pleasantly. And I beg of you never to repeat our conversation.

The Girl to whom illumination suddenly comes; rises quickly and goes over to the woman; takes her by the shoulders, and the two stare into each other's eyes, the one searching, the other fearfully. Grace!

Miss Annesley's lips fell apart, and her brows arched. She was very much surprised.

"You wish to leave my service?"—as if it were quite impossible that such a thing should occur.

"Yes, Miss."

"You are dissatisfied with your position?"—lightly.

"It is not that, Miss. As a groom I am perfectly satisfied. The trouble lies in the fact that I have too many other things to do. It is very distasteful for me to act in the capacity of butler. My temper is not equable enough for that position." He bowed.

"Very well. I trust that you will not regret your decision." She sat down and coolly resumed her work.

"It is not possible that I shall regret it."

"You may go."

He bowed again, one corner of his mouth twisted. Then he took himself off to the stables. He was certainly in what they call a towering rage.

If I were not a seer of the first degree, a narrator of the penetrative order, I should be vastly puzzled over this singular action on her part.

CHAPTER XXII

THE DRAMA UNROLLS.

It is half after eight; the curtain rises; the music of a violin is heard coming from the music-room. Col. Annesley is discovered sitting in front of the wood fire, his chin sunk on his breast, his hands hanging listlessly on each side of the chair, his face deeply lined. From time to time he looks at the clock. I can imagine no sorer picture than that of this loving, tender-hearted, wretched old man as he sits there, waiting for Karloff and the luminous end. Fortune gone with the winds, poverty leering into his face, shame drawing her red fingers across his brow, honor in sackcloth and ashes!

And but two short years ago there had not been in all the wide land a more contented man than himself—a man with a conscience free. God! Even yet he could hear the rolling, whirling ivory ball as it spun the circle of that fatal night at Monte Carlo. Man does not recall the intermediate steps of his fall; only the first step and the last. In his waking hours the colonel always heard the sound of it, and it rattled through his troubled dreams. He could not understand how everything had gone as it had. It seemed impossible that in two years he had dissipated a fortune, sullied his honor, beggared his child. It was all so like a horrible dream. If only he might wake; if only God would be so merciful as to permit him to wake!

He hid his face. There is no hell save conscience makes it. The music laughed and sighed and laughed. It was the music of love and youth; joyous, rollicking, pulsing music.

The colonel sprang to his feet suddenly; his hands at his throat. He was suffocating. The veins gurgled on his neck and brow. There was in his heart a pain as of many knives. His arms fell; of what use was it to struggle? He was caught, trapped in a net of his own contriving.

Softly he crossed the room and stood by the portiere beyond which was the music-room. She was happy, happy in her youth and ignorance! she could play all those sprightly measures, her spirit as light and conscience-free; she could sing, she could laugh, she could dance. And all the while his heart was breaking, breaking!

"How shall I face her mother?" he groaned.

The longing which always seizes the guilty to confess and relieve the mind came over him. If only he dared rush in there, throw himself at her feet, and stammer forth his wretched tale! She was of his flesh, of his blood; when she knew she would not wholly condemn him. No, no! He could not. She honored and trusted him now, she had placed him on so high a pedestal that it was utterly impossible for him to disillusion her young mind; to see for ever and ever the mute reproach in her honest eyes, to feel that though his arm encircled her she was beyond his reach.

God knew that he could not tell this child of the black gulf he had dugged for himself and her.

The bell sang its buzzing note; there was the sound of crunching wheels on the driveway; the music ceased abruptly. Silence. A door opened and closed. A moment or so later Karloff, preceded by the girl, came into the study. She was grave because she remembered Mrs. Chadwick. He was grave also; he had various reasons for being so.

"Father, the count tells me that he has an engagement with you," she said. She wondered if this appointment in any way concerned her.

"It is true, my child. Leave us and give orders that we are not to be disturbed."

She scrutinized him sharply. How strangely hollow his voice sounded! Was he ill?

"Father, you are not well. Count, you must promise me not to keep him long, however important this interview may be. He is ill and needs rest," and her loving eyes caressed each line of care in her parent's furrowed cheeks.

Annesley smiled reassuringly. It took all the strength of his will, all that remained of a high order of courage, to create this smile. He wanted to cry out to her that it was a lie, a mockery. Behind that smile his teeth grated.

"I shall not keep him long, Mademoiselle," said the count. He spoke gently, but he studiously avoided her eyes. She hesitated for a moment on the threshold; she knew not why. Her lips even formed words, but she did not speak. What was it? Something oppressed her. Her gaze wandered idly, and her father to the count, from the count to her father.

ODD MIXUP IN DRESS TROUSERS.

How Senator Aldrich Missed a Dinner and Governor Magoon of Panama Had a Fine Time—Speaker Cannon's Vegetarian Experience—Joke Cracked Between Senators—Postmaster General's Night On.

Governor Charles E. Magoon of Panama and Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island occupy adjoining apartments at the Arlington hotel, says the New York World's Washington correspondent. They employ the same valet.

The other night Governor Magoon took some ladies to the theater. As one of the ladies stepped from the carriage she dropped her fan. Governor Magoon stooped to pick it up. There was a horrible-tearing sound. The governor knew what had happened. He excused himself to the ladies, saying it was imperative that he should return to his hotel for a few moments. He gave the ladies the tickets and promised to return in a short time. Then he hurried to the hotel. He went to his room and found Senator Aldrich sitting there, mutely gazing at a pair of trousers that lay on the floor.

"By George, Magoon," said the senator, "I am glad to see you. Do you know that stupid valet has mixed up our dress trousers? You have on mine, and I cannot wear yours. They are too large for me." "I trust you have come back to change, for I am late for my dinner engagement as it stands."

"Indeed I have come back to change," said Magoon. "Glimme those trousers. They are mine. As for those I have on, you are quite welcome to them."

"Senator Aldrich" shrugged off Magoon's trousers, but when he came to put on his own which Magoon had been wearing, there was a succession of loud cries. He stayed in the hotel that night, but Magoon hustled back to the theater in his own trousers and said he had a fine time.

Speaker Cannon accepted an invitation the other day to attend a dinner given by a vegetarian. Says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch's Washington correspondent: "The speaker had been busy at the capitol trying to keep the stewards in line on the scotchland bill, and he was ready to eat a square meal when evening came. He went to the house of his host, ate of the dinner and returned to his hotel. The next morning a member asked him how he had enjoyed the meal."

"I shall never do such a foolish thing again," responded Uncle Joe. "We had bean soup, bean spinach, carrots and whatnot, but not a single dish that appealed to me. And we wound up by having hay for dessert. This idea of living on vegetables does not appeal to me. I was compelled to go to a restaurant after the meal and get something to eat. Me for beef steak and gravy hereafter."

Two Ohio women recently sat in the house gallery studying the scene below, says the Washington representative of the New York Times.

"See that fine looking old man with the snow white hair and beard?" "I wonder who he is," said one of them who seemed to be a stranger.

"Do you mean that big old man with the young man talking to him?" The young man is very bald.

"Well, a man's lucky to be bald. His wife can never pull his hair out." The old man was ex-Speaker Keifer; the young man was Nicholas Longworth.

Senators are not above cracking jokes at the expense of each other when chance offers, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger's Washington correspondent. Ex-Governor Murphy of New Jersey was a visitor at the capitol recently and with Representative Wood of the Trenton district on one side and Senator Dryden on the other, enjoyed a half-hour's study of the most dignified legislative body in the world.

Soon Senator Keen was seen to enter the gallery and make his way down to the governor's seat to shake hands with him.

"Dryden," observed a senator who was looking at the party, "has got Murphy to take a policy in the Prudential by this time."

"And now," said another, "John Keen is going to sell him his copy of Tads and Fancies."

One of the chief electricians at the big building occupied by the postoffice department while walking up Pennsylvania avenue the other night observed that there were no lights on the floor occupied by the postmaster general and his assistant, says the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger. He rushed up and, dashing into the dynamo room, asked if there had been an accident.

"Why, no; there is no one on the postmaster general's floor," explained the dynamo tender.

"Anything happened to the gentle men?"

"No; they're taking dinner at the White House tonight."

"Good heavens! Pardon me. That's the first time that floor has been in darkness since March 4, 1905, and I thought you were having trouble."

It was the postmaster general's fourth night off since taking office and his first assistant, General Hitchcock, fourth night off in three years.
